INTRODUCTION

The Department of Finance has been required to provide a tax expenditure report to the Legislature since 1971. Chapter 1762, Statutes of 1971, required that a biennial report be submitted to the Legislature. Chapter 268, Statutes of 1984, increased the reporting frequency from once every two years to once a year. Chapter 49, Statutes of 2006, required the report to include each of the following:

- A comprehensive list of tax expenditures exceeding $5 million.
- The statutory authority for each provision.
- A description of the legislative intent of each, if specified in the enacting legislation.
- The sunset date of each provision.
- The beneficiaries of the provision.
- An estimate of the state and local revenue loss for the current and two subsequent fiscal years.
- For personal income tax expenditures, the number of taxpayers and returns affected for the most recent tax year.
- For corporation and sales tax expenditures, the number of returns or businesses affected for the most recent year for which data is available.
- A listing of any comparable federal benefit.
- A description of any tax expenditure evaluation or compilation of information completed by any state agency since the last tax expenditure report by the Department of Finance.

This report fulfills the Department's statutory requirement pursuant to Government Code Section 13305.

DEFINITIONS

There is no absolute rule for defining tax expenditures, and the concept of a "tax expenditure" can be defined in several different ways. Section 13305 defines tax expenditure as "a credit, deduction, exclusion, exemption, or any other tax benefit as provided for by the state."

Although broad, this definition does exclude several provisions of the tax law from classification as tax expenditures.

- Because the basic structure of each tax is used as the starting point for determining what constitutes a tax expenditure, elements of the basic tax structure that exempt certain groups are not considered tax expenditures. For example, the sales tax is imposed on retailers for the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail. According to its basic definition, California's sales tax does not apply to sales or leases of real property, sales of services, wholesale transactions, or sales of securities and insurance. These exemptions are therefore not considered tax expenditures. They are elements of the basic tax structure.
- Across-the-board tax rate reductions do not represent tax expenditures. Tax expenditures resulting from changes in the rate structure only exist if different sets of rates are applied to a similar base.
- Progressive rate structures do not constitute tax expenditures. The basic structure of California's income tax is progressive. For that reason, application of different tax rates to different income levels is a basic characteristic of the tax and does not represent a tax expenditure.
- Exemptions or exclusions required by the U.S. Constitution, the California Constitution, or federal laws are not considered tax expenditures.
- Changes in tax law that alter penalties or interest or that accelerate or defer tax payments are generally not considered tax expenditures unless they are very narrowly targeted.

However, the definition of "tax expenditure" is subject to debate, and there is no single rule for determining what constitutes an element of the basic tax structure. For this reason, this report may exclude items that are included in other tax expenditure reports and vice versa.

WHY ADOPT TAX EXPENDITURES

Tax expenditures may be classified into the following four broad groups:

- Those which conform California tax law to federal provisions.
- Those intended to remove perceived inequities in the basic tax structure.
- Those intended to ease tax administration.
- Those which grant targeted tax reductions through exemptions, credits, deductions, or exclusions.

There are several differences between tax expenditures and direct expenditures

(those authorized through the budget process). First, tax expenditures are reviewed less frequently than direct expenditures once they are in place. This can offer taxpayers more certainty than if tax expenditures were subject to annual review, but can also result in tax expenditures remaining in the tax code long after outliving usefulness.

In general, there is also no control over the amount of foregone revenue that results from a tax expenditure once that provision has become part of the tax code. Finally, the vote requirements for tax expenditures and direct expenditures are different. Tax expenditures that are adopted legislatively (except those adopted as urgency measures) require approval by a simple majority of both houses of the Legislature. A two-thirds vote is required for budgetary appropriations.

REVENUE ESTIMATES

The estimates listed in this report are intended as a general indication of revenue losses from tax expenditure programs. In general, revenue estimates for the Personal Income Tax and Corporation Tax Laws are easier to quantify than those for the Sales and Use Tax Law. Personal income and corporation tax returns contain significant detail regarding different sources of income and types of exemptions, exclusions, deductions, and credits claimed. Thus, tax return data are often available when estimating the fiscal impact of various income and corporation tax expenditure programs. In contrast, returns filed by taxpayers under the Sales and Use Tax Law contain little specific information regarding items purchased from individual retailers. For this reason, independent data sources must be used when estimating the revenue impacts of various sales tax expenditure programs, and the precision of these estimates can be lower than those for the Personal Income Tax and Corporation Tax Laws.

In addition, certain estimates under all of the tax laws for which tax expenditure costs are cited can be subject to significant margins of error due to data limitations. Other factors complicating this report's estimates include the effects of tax law interactions and taxpayer reactions to changes in tax law. Therefore, while the report displays the total value of the major identified expenditures within each major tax, these figures are best viewed as illustrative only. The fiscal impact of individual tax expenditures cannot be summed to generate the total fiscal impact of all tax expenditures due to the complicating factors of tax law interactions and taxpayer behavioral responses.

With the exception of the deduction for charitable contributions, the revenue loss for tax expenditures that are included in both Corporate and Personal Income Tax Laws are shown under the tax with the greatest revenue loss. For Subchapter S corporation treatment, the revenue gain under the personal income tax is netted against the loss for the corporation tax and the result is shown under the corporation tax.

STATE REVENUE LOSSES

Personal Income Tax The Personal Income Tax Law includes the vast majority of all tax expenditure programs approved to date. It is estimated that special income tax provisions account for approximately $37 billion in annual tax expenditures.

Sales and Use Tax The Sales and Use Tax Law contains identifiable state tax expenditures worth about $9 billion annually. Examples of these include food; prescription medicines; gas, electricity, and water delivered through mains; farm equipment; fuel sold to common carriers; and rental of linen supplies.

Corporation Tax Tax expenditures in the corporation category amount to about $4 billion annually. Examples of these expenditures include provisions for S corporations, water's edge election, provisions for research and development, and special treatment for economically depressed areas.

Other Taxes Remaining tax laws are estimated to contain tax expenditure programs valued at more than $100 million. Much of this revenue loss results from aircraft jet fuel and motor vehicle fuel tax expenditures.

LOCAL REVENUE LOSSES

The revenue losses to local governments are also shown for the sales tax and the property tax. Property taxes are local taxes, and the legislative exemptions or preferential provisions do not constitute state tax expenditures. Nonetheless, they impact state finances because local tax exemptions reduce property tax allocations to schools. Under school finance law, the state is generally required to provide the difference in funding between local property tax allocations and school districts' revenue limits. Consequently, each dollar of property tax revenue foregone by schools results in additional state funding through the school apportionment process. Passage of Proposition 98 in November 1988 further impacts state school financing by establishing minimum funding levels for public schools and community colleges, based on both property taxes and state funding under what are known as the Test 2 and 3 formulas. However, under Test 1, property taxes allocated to schools and community colleges are not part of the guaranteed funding level.

Local government revenue losses from identifiable property tax exemptions are estimated to be in excess of $100 million, while losses from sales tax expenditures are estimated to be almost $5 billion.

UNIDENTIFIABLE REVENUE LOSS AREAS

It is not always possible to quantify the revenue loss of a particular tax expenditure. Fortunately, in most instances, those tax expenditures whose revenue impact cannot be estimated represent unique situations and probably do not result in significant revenue losses. Some examples of tax expenditures for which revenue losses cannot be quantified include sales tax exemptions for livestock and for meals furnished by institutions, and property tax exemptions for intangibles and air carrier ground time.

LEGISLATIVE INTENT

This report includes the legislative intent of the tax expenditure when that intent was specified in the enacting or amending legislation.

OTHER TAX EXPENDITURE REPORTS

In August of 2006, the Franchise Tax Board released an update of their report, California Income Tax Expenditures, Compendium of Individual Provisions, covering personal income tax and corporation tax expenditures.

The Board of Equalization released Publication 61 in June of 2005 entitled Sales and Use Taxes: Exemptions and Exclusions.

The 2007-08 Budget Perspectives and Issues prepared by the Legislative Analyst's Office included an evaluation of the Governor's Budget proposals to eliminate the Teacher Retention Credit and make permanent the one-year test for use tax on vehicles, vessels, and aircraft.

Corporation Tax

Double-Weighted Sales Factor

Description:

Corporations with income derived from sources both within and outside California must apportion income using a formula that takes into account payroll, property, and sales factors. Prior to January 1, 1993, California applied a three-factor formula in which the payroll, property, and sales factors were equally weighted. After that date, California adopted a formula in which the sales factor is double-weighted. Corporations engaged in qualified agricultural, extractive, and financial business activities are exempted from the double-weighted sales formula, and must continue using the equally weighted three-factor formula to apportion their worldwide income.
